The Terry Stage Coach and Bullion Wagon Stop is located west of Enterprise, Utah, in Shoal Canyon. The unique building was constructed between 1880 and 1885. Silver Bullion was sent by stage from Silver Reef to Pioche, Nevada, and the Terry Stage Stop was mid-way between the terminal points of the route. Descendants of the Terry family now own the well-fortified building.

Enterprise Dam and Reservoir provides year-round water for the farms in the Escalante Valley. The dam, which was completed about 1910, cost about $32,000 and took sixteen years to complete. It was built with local basalt rock and is eighty feet tall, twenty feet thick at the bottom, and eight feet at the top of the dam.

The Honeycomb Rocks Campground adjacent to Upper Enterprise Reservoir is one of the premier campsites on the Dixie National Forest. The campground is located next to the Upper Enterprise Reservoir in northwestern Washington County. It is an ideal place to camp for sportsmen or for a day picnic visit.
